

ABSTRACT

The paper reports the results of the 2007 Data Fusion Contest that was organized by the IEEE Geoscience and Remote Sensing Data Fusion Technical Committee. The contest was dedicated to the production of land cover maps in and around an urban area, exploiting satellite Landsat and SAR data. The competition was won by an algorithm based on neural networks enhanced by preprocessing and postprocessing steps.